

All Hat & No Cattle

Contact: Wrangler Jim
Email: jim@hatandcattle.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HAT & CATTLE BOYS ANNOUNCE RE-LAUNCH OF HATANDCATTLE.COM

Methane Powered Laptops Provide New Meaning To The Term: Horsepower

DALLAS, TEXAS / JUNE 11, 2010 / PONY EXPRESS – The Boys don't know when to quit. Just like on the cattle drive, they keep taking another step toward their goal, in this case to deliver an improved experience for their viewers. Unfortunately one tends to step in a lot of cow manure on a cattle drive.

The new and improved site offers an improved ability to give your feedback and engage in the conversation. Rants and raves are welcome, but if you are the strong, silent type you can just give us one word: "Cattle" if you found it useful, "Hat" if you thought it was all fluff.

You also can subscribe to a syndicated feed using your favorite RSS Reader, like Google Reader or Firefox. That way you don't have to wait to step on a cow patty, they come right to you. Rope yourself a subscription, and hang on tight. It could be a wild ride!

And remember, All Hat & No Cattle is a weekly web-based half-hour video show focused on business issues for executives, the professionals who serve them (lawyers are in the world's second-oldest profession) and those aspiring to sit in the executive suite. Jim & Chris advise either breaking and entering or pretending to be the person who waters the plants as sure-fire paths to the mahogany desk with the commanding harbor view.

It's no yellin' or screamin', no tempestuous tirades or irascible invectives. Rather, it's just a few minutes around the campfire after a long day earning on honest living (pushing paper and yellin' at your inferiors). So get off your high horse and sit down with the Boys for a spell. All Hat & No Cattle can be found at www.hatandcattle.com, and you can email the Boys at comments@hatandcattle.com.

SOURCE: Hat and Cattle Productions.